be improved by the opening of the Lazenby Avenue Extension, State Police Sgt. R. L. Mozingo indicated yesterday.

A bottleneck of gigantic proportions, the first four-course known as "the Bluefield - Hall and the new Lazenby Princeton road".

That section of U. S. 460 period of a few months and tenths mile of U.S. 460 west of between Princeton and within a distance of a few local officials Sgt. Mozingo is in a good spot six access roads which dump opening the new hospital access to observe the effect of the opening of the new installations and the results of activation of a battery of traffic lights Avenue Extension all within a designed to control the U.S. 460 and Lazenby intersection. The State Police headquarters is situated directly in front of the intersection.

"Judging from what we have observed thus far," Mozingo said, "the activation of the traffic signals and the opening of the new street will be a big improvement.'

Sgt. Mozingo said the only adverse side-effect noted during the first few days of operation of the new traffic signals involves difficulty for west bound vehicles attempting to turn left off of U.S. 460 and onto Lazenby. "When the traffic is heavy, he said, "turning left at the light is a problem. Sometimes the traffic backs up toward Princeton for a pretty good distance.'

The most desirable cure for that ailment would be the building of a third traffic lane at the intersection. The problem could also be eased by a delayed signal for east bound traffic, giving west bound cars an opportunity to turn across the east bound traffic lane.

Meanwhile, the City of Princeton is anticipating completion sometime this week of a device in its new fire station which will allow firemen to turn the traffic lights red for all vehicles, allowing emergency fire trucks to enter the traffic pattern.

Fire Chief John M. Hyatt explained, "The last thing the firemen will do before leaving the station to answer an alarm is to flip the switch to stop all traffic on U.S. 460 and on Lazenby Avenue. Otherwise," he continued, "there may be times when we would have problems getting the trucks

Hyatt said the pre-timed switch, when activated, will cause all traffic lights at the intersection to turn red for 90 seconds, thereby allowing firemen time to leave the station and clear the intersection before the regular traffic flow is resumed.

The City of Princeton has also kept a cautious eve on the situation in that area. The city is formulating plans for a general traffic survey of the community with particular interest payed to those areas around the Mercer County Courthouse and on the extreme west side of town. Officials at city hall said one problem in that area became apparent Monday afternoon when the 5 o'clock crush developed. Traffic backed up for a considerable distance on the hospital road, it was reported, due to constant streams of automobiles flowing either down U.S. 460 or off of the Lazenby Extension.

There are no traffic signals at the intersection of the hospital the Austin Powder Co. of Ten- road and U. S. 460 and cars traveling on Hospital Drive are at the mercy of Bluefield -

Manchin Receives WANTED BY THE FBI 3,000 Extra Votes

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) - James A. Manchin, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for secretary of state in West Virginia's May 9 primaries, was credited with approximately 3,000 more votes in Kanawha County then he received, the Charleston Daily Mail reported

The newspaper said the mis-take was discovered in a review of tabulation cards made during the unofficial count. With 238 of 243 precincts reporting, the tabulation showed Manchin with 2,502 votes. The next day, however, when the last five precincts were coknted, Manchin's total jumped to The newspaper said the mistake apparently was due to a typographical error. The Daily Mai, the Charleston Gazette and broadcast stations in the city and county pooled their efforts to collect the votel Those vote totals were then supplied to the State Election

Service, which in turn fed vote totals to the wire services and other newspapers and broadcast outlets across the state. The error in Manchen's vote total in Kanawha County was picked up by the election service and added in with other county totals. A review was taken Tuesday folgowing Manchin's official request for a recount in Kanawha County. Manchin asked for a recount based on the discrepency between the final news service totals and unofficial records at the voters registrar office which showed him withnonly 2,526 votes in the County Clerk Jack Pauley, chief counzy election official, said he was sure the 2,526 figwas correct. He added that official results of the May 9 primary in Kanawha County would be released Wednesday.

Pauley also said he believed Manchin would withdraw his request for a recount when the official county tabulation is released.

Manchin was unavailable for immediate comment.
